ISSCR International Symposium, Tokyo, Japan
Organized by:
The International Society for Stem Cell Research (ISSCR)
Japanese Society of Regenerative Medicine (JSRM)

In submitting an abstract for consideration for “Stem Cells: From Basic Science to Clinical Translation,” the primary author is responsible for ensuring that the work described in the abstract was conducted in accordance with the following rules and policies. All abstracts submitted are screened by the Organizing Committee to ensure that they meet these standards:

- Must include substantive results, whether experimental, calculated, or theoretical.
- Clinical case studies will not be considered.
- Promotion of a commercial product or service is not permitted.

On occasion, the Organizing Committee may solicit additional information from submitters to ensure that the work reported in an abstract complies with the Research Conduct Policy outlined below. Failure to reply satisfactorily to a request for additional information constitutes grounds for abstract rejection.

While abstracts are evaluated for scientific interest and are citable, the brevity of the presentation precludes rigorous peer review. Thus, abstract acceptance should not be taken as endorsement of the validity or safety of research by the ISSCR.

1. Research Conduct Policy
Submission of an abstract constitutes a formal agreement and statement by the authors that they have conducted the reported research in accordance with the relevant institutional and national guidelines and regulations regarding experiments on human subjects, live vertebrates, or higher invertebrates and ISSCR policies the ISSCR 2016 Guidelines for Stem Cell Research and Clinical Translation. Abstracts reporting any experimental work that was not conducted in accordance with these guidelines will be rejected by the Organizing Committee.

Abstracts must be based on results that have not been published in their entirety in any journal, nationally or internationally, before submission to this meeting.
